

“WHATEVER YOUR VISION, A LAVISH AFFAIR CAN HELP GET YOU THERE – ON TIME, LOOKING DIVINE, WEARING A SMILE THAT SAYS ALL THE STARS HAVE ALIGNED.”

A LAVISH AFFAIR

For a bride, there's nothing more important than having everything go right on her wedding day and there's no better luxury than giving over that job to a professional.

Wedding planner Marisa Welcome, founder of A Lavish Affair, has been guiding couples to the wedding of their dreams for the past seven years. What sets her apart from the planning fraternity is her vast experience, her warm down-to-earth personality and her absolute attention to detail.

With a professional planner from A Lavish Affair to take charge of the 'to do' list, you can leave behind the stress of decisions and deadlines, knowing there is one person who is as dedicated to the success of your day as you are.

"Having a wedding coordinator does save couples time and money but it also avoids the heartache and the stress that can go with wedding planning. No bride should be caught out by an unfortunate mistake or turned into a crying mess because she can't please everyone. Working through the hiccups is where we come in," says principal planner, Marisa.

Planning is especially helpful for busy brides who know the value of outsourcing to a professional – someone who can unearth the essence of your personality and infuse that into the visual styling across your venue and your wardrobe.

Ultimately, Marisa wants her clients to feel proud of their wedding event, which should be a unique and true reflection of the happy couple.

How they deliver that is by treating their clients with the utmost respect and attention. It's the reason they have secured so many word-of-mouth recommendations.

"We never cut corners. Our clients can count on us for everything. That's the distinction of our wedding planning, being able to rely on us implicitly for anything and everything," says Marisa.

With the help of A Lavish Affair, couples can rest assured that their day will run smoothly – just as they'd hoped. Whatever your vision, whatever your budget, A Lavish Affair can help you get there – on time, looking divine, wearing a smile that says all the stars have aligned on this, your perfect wedding day.
